

MEMBER SCHOLARSHIPS

Each year the ISA Foundation will award up to seven (7) scholarships to member company employees for the purposes of continuing education and/or professional development. These educational programs may include enrollment in a university, community college, technical training or any industrial channel skill development program that helps advance the individual's career in the Industrial Supply Channel.

Two level of scholarships are available based on the individual education need as deemed by the ISA Foundation Board of Directors as follows:

 GARY L. BUFFINGTON MEMORIAL
SCHOLARSHIP

Two (2) available up to $5,000 each

More costly education needs

Allan W. Chartier
PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT
SCHOLARSHIP

Five (5) available up to $1,000 each

Less costly education needs

Member Company Considerations:

- Must be a current ISA member company in good standing – dues are paid and current and will remain so through the duration of any scholarship support.
- Although not mandatory, the ISA Foundation encourages the member company to match a portion of the scholarship awarded to demonstrate the connection between ISA and its member companies on the importance of continued education and development for its employees.

MEMBER SCHOLARSHIPS

Application Process:

- Member company solicits internal applicants with a focus on developing their core team.

- Scholarship Sponsor and Applicant submits completed results and reviews with a designated ISA Foundation Board Member.
- Scholarships will be awarded upon the successful completion and the actual cost of the education, not to exceed the Scholarship defined value.
